

I would like to comment about any form of religious broadcasting. I believe that all forms of religious broadcasting should be allowed. And while I do not necessarily agree with all religious broadcasts, I will support their right to broadcast on the public air waves, as long as they are not overtly advocating some form of hate crime against a specific people group. As long as they solicit donations for their monthly operating expenses and the public at large, and the public at large will provide for these expenses then they should be allowed. In a truly capitalist market, what the market wants survives and if the market does not want it, it does not survive. I appreciate your allowing me to comment about this. Thank you for your time.
